

The Afri-Plastics competition organized by the UK-based Nesta Challenges foundation has rewarded eight plastic waste recovery solutions from African start-ups.

Among the award-winning start-ups: Nigeria-based Chanja Datti. The company, founded by Funto Boroffice, works with factories in Abuja to give a second life to household waste.

The eight winners will receive technical support for the expansion of their solutions in sub-Saharan Africa, as well as financial support worth a total of $5.2 million from the Canadian government.

(Afrik 21 - February 2023).

Points to be precised :

- Description of the activity (kind of waste, type of process, industrial tool...)
- Quantities treated in 2023
- Head Office and plant(s) location(s)
